Hi Erik,

Thank you for the update!

To answer your questions.

- No, there are no additional fees outside of what I've outlined to launch and maintain the website as-is. But per our previous emails, any additional structural updates or add ons to the website (for example- Jen mentioned a 'chat feature') would incur an incremental cost and we would determine that cost based on the scope of those updates. We would provide quotes on those individually.
- Copy changes, informational updates, etc. that would be added to the website as-is are all included in your monthly hosting fee- no additional charges

Does that make sense?

- The VAC owns the website. We simply host and manage it for you. When you guys previously pulled the website down, we packaged up all the assets and delivered them to your team. They belong to you. That would be the process if something happened to us, or you chose to terminate the contract.

I'll reach out to my team regarding a kick off call/training session. Stay tuned!

Thank you!

Jess
